

From Arkansas.

Ed. Register:—Colorado has again come to the front by her Russian tactics. Moyer and Haywood, president and secretary of the Western Federation of Miners and some of their associates have been arrested and spirited away to Idaho, on an alleged confession of a Pinkerton, or some other disreputable thug, charging them with the murder of Frank Steunenberg, ex-governor of Idaho. They were not allowed to bid farewell to their families, nor were they allowed to communicate with their lawyers. They were spirited away on a special train, for the alleged reason that "they knowing they would never get out of Idaho alive" had planned to have the train blown up, and he (the Pinkerton) wished to save the lives of innocent persons. In view of the long line of persecutions to which the Western Federation of Miners have been subjected, this last seems a fitting climax to the whole infamous proceeding. Looking at the thing from the point of reason, if Moyer and Haywood were assassins at heart would they not be much more likely to have expended their wrath upon the head of Peabody, the infamous ex-governor of Colorado?

I inclose herewith a clipping from the Commercial Appeal, of March 1st, which I wish to make a part of this article:

If John D. Rockefeller evades the law, defies the law's process, and declines to submit himself to the call of the law, why should the law protect John in his holdings? Suppose, for instance, some few of the people should begin looting the Rockefeller home, would it not be sadly unbecoming of John D. to ask protection from that which he openly flaunts? Chancery has a nice old maxim which says a complainant seeking redress must come into court with clean hands, or something to that effect. Could the richest man in the world show these "clean hands" while actually engaged in pelting the law with the mud of contumely and disrespect? Well, if the law is snubbed by others as effectually as Rockefeller snubs it, there is but a time limit to its powers of protection, and one thing is certain, John D. has more for the law to protect than any other citizen. His defiance of the power that permits him to enjoy his possessions may yet react on the old man, for inasmuch as he has brought the law into contempt with the people, so the time may come when the people will decline to let it protect him in his vast holdings. It is a dangerous example this rich man has set, and unless the law vindicates itself by causing him to experience punishment for his act, those at present controlled by the law are apt to regard it as a creature of too great weakness to merit the full popular obedience.

This is a broad hint that if the people began looting the property of John D. Rockefeller he would only be reaping what he had sown. But John is too cunning and cute to be disturbed by such articles. He too well knows that the whole force of the Federal government would be invoked to protect the property of Standard Oil from the hands of the common herd. And this is America, and we are Americans! Why, in that older day, to be an American was greater than a king! A rich man's dollars are of greater weight than a poor man's person; especially if that poor man chances to stand in the way of the accumulation of dollars. If the least drop of the blood of the patriots of '76 remained in the veins of the people to-day, the country would resound with such an outcry that the red-handed, would-be murderers of Moyer and Haywood would take a second thought before the consumption of their foul plot.

Given Up to Die.

B. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured." Why not let it help you? Arcadia Valley Drug Co.

Obituary.

Edna Lewis, eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis, died at her home on Bear Branch, February 18, 1906, aged 13 years and 4 days. She was a sweet and loving child and will be greatly missed by all who knew her. She leaves a father, mother, three sisters, a brother and many friends to mourn her loss. Her remains were laid to rest in the Lewis cemetery yard, one mile below Annapolis. It is hard to give up the ones that are so dear to us, but may her loved ones live ever faithful to Him, that doeth all things well, and meet her in the skies above. Weep not for dear Edna, for God called her above, where all is peace and love. A FRIEND.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by Arcadia Valley Drug Co.
